¹ Across the United States, the majority of experts consulted about poverty found the most accurate and representative data for the nation and States' were those from the "AMERICAN COMMUNITY SURVEY (also released annual by the U.S. Census Bureau). Those comparative data for all persons and "children (U.S. and Michigan) are summarized on these two pages for CY 2000 - CY 2006.

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, Current Population Reports, P60-Series, Income Poverty and Health Insurance Coverage in the United States
(Calendar years 1999 - 2006).

Note: National and State CY 2006 poverty data for both the Current Population Series data, and the American Community Survey were released on August 27, 2006.

Theme: While the national poverty rate for all people fell to 12.3% in 2006 from 12.6% in 2005, Michigan's rate increased to 13.3% (for 2006) from the 2005 rate of 12.0%.

Ratio of incomes to poverty (<50% through 185%) INCREASED in Michigan from 2005 levels.

That is, more people were not only in poverty, but deeper in poverty than the preceding year.

The same deterioration was found in the child poverty rates summarized on the following page. Whereas 16.3% of children were in poverty in Michigan in 2005, the rate increased to 19.3% in 2006.
